Some recommendations, mostly food-related, from readers.

ISens Production is a site specific dance group. They did an amazing performance in the winding staircase of an office building downtown several years ago, one of those beautiful staircases with winding wrought iron banisters, dancers on each floor, and the audience stood at the top and then moved down with the dancers as the piece progressed. I was hard to convince but when I saw it, I went back twice more. Then they did a piece called Noir in a parking garage near Canal Street; the feeling was like '30s gangster movies. Every night the management cleaned out enough parking spaces for them to perform and onlookers sat and watched in their own cars with sound piped in a la drive-in movies, or through the car radio. It was quite cool. Changes of costume were in the car trunks! Now they are doing Agora in the McCarren pool site. Runs September 13 until September 24. Details here.
